Mr. Reed made the point that the resolu-

Speaker Crisp called the attention of Mr.

The house ought to determine here and now whether or not a member can defy its rules.

The chair stated that under the rules, it was his duty to announce the result of the vote. The vote was yeas 169, nays 5; five short on One Roll Call the Required Number

It was said that five supporters of Mr. Bland failed to get their votes in because they were not in the hall of the house when called. These, in addition to those re-Messrs. Clancy and Magner, of the New York delegation, who had heretofore re-frained from voting, voted in favor of the

Mr. Bland moved a call of the house.
On this motion, there was arst a viva voce vote; then a vote by division; third a vote by tellers—Messrs. Bland and Reed officiating, and finally a vote by yeas and nays.
The latter resulted: Yeas, 189; nays, 4.
So the call was ordered. It showed 265 members present and responding to their names.

To dispense with further proceedings un To dispense with further proceedings under the call, the same procedure was followed-four separate votes being taken ending with the yeas and nays.

The call resulted: Yeas, 183; nays, 3; thus dispensing with further proceedings.

At Last, a Quorum. Mr. Bland renewed his motion and the yeas and nays were called.

As the roll call proceeded, it became apparent to many that a quorum would be obtained.

parent to many that a quorum would be obtained, and members, keeping tally, crowded about the clerk's desk.

Mr. Tracey occupied the seat at which, for two weeks past, he has kept tally with the clerk on roll calls, closely following the responses to the call. When it was determined that a quorum had been obtained on the second call of the roll, Mr. Tracey voted aye, amid slight applause from the democratic side, his purpose being, as afterwards appeared, to move a reconsideration.

The announcement of the vote by the speaker—177 yeas to 7 nays—evoked a round of hearty applause from the democrats and populists.

An Exciting Momen'.

Mr. Outhwaite and Mr. Tracey were on their feet demanding recognition, the for-mer to present an order from the committee mer to present an order from the committee on rules limiting debate on the pending bill and amendments to two hours, and the latter to move a reconsideration of the vote just taken. Mr. Outhwaite was given the floor, and the speaker stated, after putting the question, that Mr. Tracey had interposed a motion to reconsider.

Mr. Outhwaite demanded the previous question on his motion, but the yeas and nays were ordered without a division.

After a name or two had been called Mr. Reed precipitated an angry discussion which for intensity equaled the famous scenes in intensity equaled the famous scenes in the fifty-first congress, when Speaker Reed was counting quorums. The gentleman from Maine suggested that a roll call was out of order, inasmuch as the last vote did not disclose the presence of a quorum.

Sit Down, Tom. The Speaker-By what authority does the gentleman make that statement?

The Speaker—The gentleman from New York is not the keeper of the roll for the house. (Applause.) The clerk will proceed with the call.

Mr. Reed, persisting, amid cries of "regular order," stated that when a member arose and suggested that an error had been committed he was entitled to respectful treat-ment from the chair and from the house. The Speaker—Has not the gentleman had it? There has been no suggestion that the vote had been impeached by the gentleman from New York. If one were made the chair will be glad to have it examined in chair will be glad to have it examined in the interests of right and truth.

While this colloquy was proceeding, members rushed down the aisles to the center, and Messrs. Outhwaite and McMillin asserted that Mr. Tracey had accepted the validity and correctness of the vote by moving to reconsider it. His remedy was to have the vote recapitulated and this, he had failed to do.

The confusion became so great—riembers shouting at each other and the chair—that

Tracey Told Him So. Mr. Reed, resuming, stated that he had been out of the hall while the roll was being called, attending a meeting of the committee on rules, at which he understood he was to have an opportunity to be heard on the order reported, and, of course, did not know what had occurred. The gentle-man from New York (Mr. Tracey) had in-formed him that a quorum had not voted and knowing that the member had been keeping tally for a number of days without an error, he was so much impressed with the statement of the gentleman that he felt it to be his duty to call the attention of the chair and the house to it, that the error might be corrected if one had been

Mr. McMillin declared that the gentleman from New York should speak for himself and not by proxy.

Mr. Meredith-Mr. Speaker, there been a comedy of errors here and the gentleman from New York has been in error for some weeks and is in error now. Mr. Tracey endeavored to make himself heard and finally succeeded. He said that it was a matter of but little moment. A quorum would be secured in any event, he conceded. But he had kept what he be lieved to be a correct tally and it showed but 174 votes. But he would not undertake to impeach the accuracy of the official count. Whereupon the storm subsided and the roll call proceeded.

Called Down the Clerks. When the letter T was reached there was a slight squall. Mr. Reed called the attention of the chair to the fact that the clerk, after calling Talbert, of South Carolina and Called Carolina and ina, returned and called Stockdale, of Mississippl, which he said was out of order.

The speaker coincided with the gentle-man from Maine, who continued from the floor: "It is decidedly out of order. The clerks have no right to interest themselves on the floor to back up their action. But it is only a part of what we have been having right along."

having right along."

Mr. Springer stated that Mr. Stockdale had responded when his name was called. Speaker Crisp directed the clerk not to return to a name after it had been passed; it was not in order.

Mr. Outhwaite's demand for the previous question was seconded—170 to 10—and again the friends of the pending bill expressed their pleasure at the result by vigorous hand clapping.

On the passage of the order the order on division was ayes 145, nays 0.

The Quorum Disappears. Colonel Lon Gets After Tracey.

Mr. Tracey made the point of no quorum, and the yeas and nays were called. Before the result of the vote was announced, Mr. Livingston sad he desired to submit a motion. Rule 8, he sald, required members present unless excused, to vote upon every proposition presented to the house. The senteman from New York, Mr. Tracey, had refused to vote and he demanded that he be brought before the bar of the house and explain his refusal fo vote.

Mr. Johnson said he had a list of twenty-five members who had violated the rule, which he offered to send to the desk.

The chair stated that the rule was well known. The chair could not enforce the pulse otherwise than by appealing to members to observe it. The chair was but the original of the house, and would never make it rule amless authorized and directed so to by the house. (Applause.)

Mr. Boatner argued in support of Mr. Avinston's motion. It was, he said, an illied contempt and violation of the rules.

Chattanooga, Tenn., February 28.—(Special.)—Late last night thirteen nude females were surprised in John Loell's saloon, on Market street, the main business thorough fare, while flitting through the licentious figures of a can-can. The dancers were inmates of well-known down-town dives and were set up to the indecent prank by a Baltimore traveling man. The officers arrested the women, who were fined heavily by the recorder today, but the man was smuggled out of harm's way by his friends. The disgraceful orgies were witnessed by a large number of men. So merry with drink did the women become that their dancing and ribald songs disturbed the sleeping neighborhood and led to their arrest.

A few other lines reserve the right to withdraw in the event their interests are not protected by the association if any active warfare is entered into by the roads which have withdrawn.

Two long sessions were held today. The committees which had been appointed to look into certain matters relating to interests that would be affected by the withdrawal of the Louisville and Nashville, made a partial report and were continued. Thus far there is no great danger of any complications arising from the action of the Louisville and Nashville. Receiver Felton, of the Queen and Crescent, was on which have withdrawn. ton, of the Queen and Crescent, was on hand at both sessions. The feeling said to exist between him and President Smith since the latter's letter, is all a myth. Mr. Felton said to The Constitution correspondent that he did not allow business

Milton Smith States His Case. The Louisville and Nashville was in earnest when that letter was written by President Smith. Mr. Smith took the floor for the purpose of delivering his ultimatum. He said the Louisville and Nashville was out of the association for good and added that under no consideration could his road be induced to enter into the agreement again. Mr. Smith was told in answer that as much as it was desired to Jave the Lou-isville and Nashville remain a member of the association, it was known that pleading would not avail anything. After Mr. Smith spoke President Thomas, of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, made a talk President Thomas made exactly the same explanation that President Smith had giv-en, all of which was expected since the two lines are practically the same. There was western might follow from the withdrawal of the two roads mentioned. If rate cutting is to be indulged in by the two independent lines, then the competing lines must protect themselves. This they cannot do and remain members of the association. Therefore the Illinois Central, the Louisville and New Orleans and Texas, the Yazoo and New Orleans and Texas, the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley and the Mobile and Ohio gave notice that in the event their inter-ests could not be protected they would withdraw from the association.

Not in a Hostile Spirit. This was not meant in a spirit of hostili-ty by any means, but, on the other hand, acting in good faith toward the association, and simply placing them in a posi-tion to protect their own interests if the outside lines go on the warpath. While it would now appear that the future welfare of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association is assured, the committee saw, fit to go slow and not do anything definite until it was ascertained that the two outside lines would not cause a demoraliza-tion that will force others of the lines to withdraw for safety.

Adjourned to March 13th. Therefore, with a view of giving the interested lines a chance, the meeting adjourned to meet in New York, March Jah, by which time the position of the Louisville and Nashville and the Nashville, Chattanoo ga and St. Louis will be ascertained. If it develops that they will not engage in a ate war, but simply withdraw for the alleged reason that other lines were not living up to the agreement, then all will be well. But should a serious cutting of rates come about, then the other lines interested as competitors of the Louisville and Nashville in the territory complained of, cannot be expected to remain in the asso-

Should they withdraw the territory of the association would have to be restricted, so as not to include the territory of those lines and to allow them to get out of the asso-ciation, practically putting the association

Traffic officials in attendance at the meeting do not think the Louisville and Nashville is going to indulge in rate cutting They are of the opinion that the new tariff was drawn up for use in the event of the dissolution of the association, and think that as it has held together, the old standard tariffs will be continued in force and rates observed.

A notable case is being tried in the su-perior court here. It is that of Josiah Turner, who, twenty-four years ago, was

RICHTER'S REPLY

To the Speech of Von Bennigsen in the Reichstag.

Berlin, February 28.—Today's debate in the reichstag on the German-Russian treaty, was very exciting. Dr. von Bennigsen, the leader of the national liberals, having ma a speech yesterday in which he descried the Richter radicals, Eugene Richter rose to reply to him today. He began with a violent assault upon Von Bennigsen and his remarks to the end bristled with personalimarks to the end bristled with personal-ties. He denounced the assertion that he and his colleagues were and had been op-posed to the government eyer since 1870 as false. The opposition of the radicals to the government, he said, had been confirmed to resisting the curtailment of the constitu-tional rights of the German states in the tional rights of the definial reichstag whenever such attempts had been made. He deplored the spectacle of Von Bennigsen defending the conservative aristocracy, which, he said, had proved itself unable to fulfill the demands of modern times or meet the requirements of the peo-ple. Mr. Gladstone is understood to have made a proposal to his colleagues to revive the home rule question in the shape of a resolution pledging the house of commons to deal with home rule for Ireland at the following session of parliament. This proposal is said not to have found favor with the cabinet ministers.

The Independent, of Dublin, accepts the reports of Mr. Gladstone's retirement as meaning that the movement in favor of home rule will be dropped.

Starving to Death. Starving to Death.

San Antonio, Tex., February 28.—The starving people of Starr county have received comparatively light assistance in response to their appeal to the world for help. Their condition cannot be described. Many ranches have been deserted and a number of deaths from starvation have occurred. Cattle and other live stock have died by the thousands. The county is literally burned up and water for domestic purposes must be hauled long distances.

If He Gives Them Away They Declare They Will Kill Him-If He Does Not Peach the Slaughters Will Act.

Winston, N. C., February 28 .- (Special.)-The lynching of James Slaughter in Alle-gheny county last Friday morning for the murder of two reputable citizens is developing into a serious affair, for many parties concerned. The mob went to the fail well armed with sledge hammers, axs and other implements for forcing an en-trance. They also carried rope these with which to swing their man into eternity on short notice. The mob resisted arrest when Jailer McCraw drew his shotgun and began firing promiscuously. He injured three men, two seriously. One of them, Alexander Rose, was left by the lynchers. He was captured and put in jail until yesterday, when the sheriff and jailer were told three stories. One was that the five big brothers of the man lynched were going to visit the jail and demand Rose to reveal the names of every man in the lynching party. The second was that the lynchers were going to hang him for fear he was going to turn state's evidence. The third was to the effect that Rose's friends wanted his release and would demand it. Upon this evidence the sheriff brought Rose here last night for safe keeping.

The wounded man is in a critical condition. He has twenty-four buckshot in his sbdomen and breast and fourteen in his right hand. He is twenty-seven years old and has a family, a wife and four children, and is one of his county's best citizens.

Sheriff Gambol left here today for his home. He says the trouble is not over. He expects many lives to be lost before the matter is settled. However, he seems to be firm and says he will not shirk any duty in trying to uphold the law.

Rose said today that if put on the stand he would be compelled to tell the names of every man in the lynching party. If he does this the men threaten him with death. If he does not tell it Slaughter's five brothers say they will him. The affair is creating the greatest sensation that ever occurred in the state and much bloodshed is feared. expects many lives to be lost before the

SUICIDE OF PITCHER MENABB After Shooting One of the Alvin Joslyn

Pittsburg, Pa., February 28.—A terrible tragedy was enacted at the Hotel Eiffel, at 508 Smithfield street, at 8:30 o'clock tonight, from which Pitcher McNabb, of the Baltimore club, is dead, and Louise Kellogg will likely die from the result of the wounds received from a pistol in the hands of McNabb. Louise Kellogg was a member of the Alvin Josiyn theatrical company, and came here from New York today. She met McNabb a short time be-fore 8:30 o'clock on Fifth avenue tonight where a room was engaged. A young man named Gillen, a friend of both McNabb and the Kellogg woman, went up to their room about 8:30 o'clock to call on them. He heard the woman groaning and called for help. As it is right across from the city hall, Irspector McKelvy and several officers were soon on the scene. The door was burst open and a bloody sight met their gaze. On the floor lay the woman with three bullet holes in her head and neck. McNabb was laying beside her with two shots through the head that killed him almost instantly. The woman was taken to the homeopathic hospital. She can

ardly recover.

McNabb's body was removed to the morgue. There was a fire a few doors above the hotel at the time McNabb did the shooting. This caused much excitement in the vicinity and the hotel people did not even hear the shots fired. McNabb did not even hear the shots free. McNaob evidently meant murder when he went to the room, for he was there only a short time before he did the shooting. Louise Kellogg's right name is Mrs. R. E. Rockwell, and she has a husband living at Seattle, Wash. Kellogg was her stage name. Her parents live at Braddock, near this city. Unless she regains consciousness the cause of the shooting may never be

Rufus Nix, who is addicted to whisky, had been paying attention for some time to Miss Poole. Her mother objected to his attention and forbade his visiting her house. Nix was attentive to the girl and her brother went to her and took her away to another part of the room. Nix was enraged and swore he room. Nix was enraged and swore he would lick the whole Poole layout. The Poole boys went out to hitch up their horses to go home and Nix followed them into the yard. Just what took place no one knows, only Nix was very profane and abusive and drew his pistol and commenced firing at Walter Poole. Three bullets took effect, one in the stomach, which may cause death; one in the breast and the third made a slight flesh wound. The Poole were unarmed. Nix has not been arrested

The jury returned a verdict of gunty and Judge Morris sentence Don Jan to the penitentiary for eighteen months. When brought into court Don Jan told Judge Morris that he needed no counsel and that he wanted Vice President Stevenson, Senator Sherman and several others summoned as witnesses. This request was refused. The postal card addressed to Vice President Stevenson was mailed in Baltimore on December 20th last and read: "Doomsday—if you do not send me my expenses—125—then you will be one of the first to be kicked out, but if you do, then I will see you first before

A BATTLE FOUGHT IN THE ROAD

The Negroes Are Driven Back, but Start in Pursuit Again-Officers Arrive Too Late on the Scene.

Columbus, Ga., February 28.—(Special.)—
A sensation was created at police headquarters today by the report that a serious conflict between some white men and negroes was in progress on the Hamilton road, about a mile north of this city. Sheriff Burrus was notified and upon investigation was convinced that there was some truth in the report. The sheriff, accordingly ordered his deputy to the scene of the trouble. Chief of Police Williams also ordered a detachment of his force out.

This morning when the gentle-men who were traveling in a wagon called for their new employe, they found one of her friends at the house who said the woman should not leave the city. The negroes, it is learned, opened fire, which was returned by the Hargetts. The negroes were soon repulsed and the Harris county party proceeded. THE CAUCUS BREAKS UP.

It Decides to Turn the Tariff Bill Over to the Finance Committee.
Washington, February 28.—(Special.)—The senatorial democratic caucus adjourned sine lie this afternoon. It found the tariff bill a difficult job to handle, and after a three days' struggle abandoned its efforts and turned the bill back over to the finance committee to perfect and report to the sen-

The chief fighting in caucus has been over coal, iron, sugar and lead. After a long discussion today the iron schedule was voted on., Senator Pugh had offered a proposition to make the duty 50 cents a to but the caucus, by a vote of 19 to 16, voted down Mr. Pugh's proposition. Immediately Mr. Pugh arose and declared that he would not be bound by that vote. He would go out of the caucus and offer his amendment to the bill in the senate. This declaration on the part of Senator Pugh created some what of a panic, so to speak. Then Mr. Brice, who was the chief mover in having the caucus, prepared and introduced a resolution that the caucus adjourn sine die, that the whole bill be given back to the committee to report to the senate, that every senator had the right to offer amendments as he saw fit but on the final vote on the passage of the bill all democratic senators should vote for it.

Mr. Voorhees, chairman of the finance committee, then made a statement that the committee would make no discrimination in the sugar and lead schedules in favor of the trusts. With this understanding, the committee would again take charge of the bill. This settled matters and the caucus expired. The committee may report the bill to the senate at once. It will certainly not report later than Monday. I have it that the committee will compromise on the iron schedule by giving about 30 cents a ton. It will give 50 cents on coal and perhaps 1 cent on sugar, but the latter will probably

Referring to the income tax, Mr. Gorman expressed his bitter opposition to that tay. It was, he said undemocratic and against democratic ideas. He hoped it would be sticken from the bill, but if it was not, he said he would, as he expressed it, "swallow the dose," but assured his colleagues that it would be the "bitterest dose he had set been compelled to take."

They also want to amend the game laws so as to make it a misdemeanor for any person to even have in their possession trapped or dead game out of season, and also to make it a misdemeanor for any express company or common carrier to transport such game during the closed season. SALVINI AS D'ARTAGNAN.

If the gentlemen and ladies who walk through the so-called plays of modern society and who draw salaries by the grace of Mr. Charley Frohman—their trousers prop-erly creased, their tailor-made gowns illustrating the latest modes, and their voices attuned to the pitch of polite conversation, nothing more—if these gentlemen and ladies, I say, had been at the Grand last night, they would have been shocked. They would have held up their hands in holy horror and would have declared that Monsieur D'Artagnan is too utterly rough a fellow, don't you know; and they would have thought it the height of bad taste in the Atlanta audience which evinced the keen-est interest in the experiences of this same impossible youth. The fact is, the sight of a real actor would have proven too severe a shock on their tender sensibilities. It may be that the ladies and gentlemen whom I speak have some followers in Atlanta who think as they do; if so, people were not very much in evidence last

What a delightful fellow D'Artagnan is: how superbly is the character portrayed by that youngest of great actors and greatest is this play-full of life and fire, of love and fight, of intrigue that is foiled by the young hero-idol, and of romance that stirs the cockles of the heart-what a treat are the plays of this kind, produced as these are, in the day of the modern society play. The youths who in the exhuberance of their enthusiasm, did what they could to lift the roofs with their whoops, reflected my sentiments exactly. Happy gallery god!

wanted to yell myself. Everybody knows the "Three Guards men," and everybody knows D'Artagnan. To know him is to love him. He is the most charming character that the grea Dumas created. It is this acquaintance with the story and the character which accounts, in a measure, for the very great popularity of the play. But it is to Salvini's magnificent portrayal of the characte that the continuance and the increase in this popularity is principally due. His D'Artagnan will live. All others who attempt it will be judged by his standard, and it is a prediction that will stand that not in our day or in anybody else's day we see one that can stand test. The role is particularly to Salvini. His youth, his test. suited sturdy and splendid physique, his intellectual attainments, the fire of his Italian nature seem to make him the ideal of Dur real D'Artagnan. Salvini and his company were given the heartiest possible reception last night. Time and again was the young actor com-pelled to respond to curtain calls and every scene was interrupted by hearty apple It was not all for the young star, though naturally most of it was. He has surrounded himself with a company which may justly be said to be the most excellent we have ever had in romantic drama, a co pany of actors and actresses. And then, next worthy of note, too, is the scenic elaborateness of the production. The play is staged with all of the completeness of a New York production, and in every detail there is perfection. Of the supporting company, the sombre Athos of William Redmund; the brave and boasting Porthos of William Harris; the Aramis of T. D. Murphill are all excellent. Ben Johnson gave a most intelligent and skillful interpretation of the crafty Richelieu; John A. Lane was an ideal Buckingham. Eleonor Moretti, as the queen, showed rare intelligence and ability; Maud Dixon was an exquisitely dainty and lovable Constance, and Augusta de Forrest was a good Lady de Winter Of the others. Mr. Day Lady de Winter. Of the others, Mr. Day and Mr. Clare deserve especial mention, but the cast is strong in every feature.

the bill. Tonight it will be the new play "Zamar."

It is the opinion of critics that "Ruy Blas" gives Salvini better opportunities to display his great power as an actor than anything else he does. The play is by Victor Hugo, and is the masterplece of the school to which it belongs, portraying as it does, the pompous times of romantic old Spain. It abounds in the novel, the picturesque and the exciting; it is diversified with flery passion, tender sentiment and sparkling comedy. Not since Booth was in his prime has "Ruy Blas" had adequate presentation until now.

Marietta, Ga., February 28.—(Special.)—
The young men of the military company gave a supper last night to provide themselves with a treasury fund. A large store in the Elmwood hotel block, fronting about forty feet on the square and running back about two hundred feet, was secured for the supper. Under the artistic touch of the young ladies who kindly assisted in the un-dertaking, the store was transformed into a veritable flower garden.

Nearly the whole of Marietta and a liberal addition from other localities came to enjoy the supper. The large crowd made one think he had suddenly found his way into a second Delmonico's. Suppers were served and delicacies were to be had by ordering and delicacies were to be had by ordering. Many devices were on hand to entertain and coax money from pockets. One of features of the evening was a voting contest for the most popular young lady, to act as sponsor of the company. Votes to the number of 1,017, at 10 cents each, were cast. Miss Elizabeth Cottingham re-ceived 617, Miss Minnie Boston 367, and Scattering 33. Miss Cottingham will have the honor of naming the company. The amount realized was over $260.

"I see there is yet hope for third party

They are reasonable, and will become democrats again. I responded to this call that I may answer certain things Mr. Atkinson has said about the young men of Georgia. The papers say he was aiming at me when he said 'sprigs who never fought a battle ought not to handle big questions.' I think he meant all

Mr. Cobb then made a rattling speech for Evans, which was applauded throughout, and concluded by saying: "My personal friend, Mr. Atkinson, will find out that those sons of southern soldiers whom that those sons of southern soldiers whom he terms contemptuously, 'sprigs that never fought a battle,' will be palibearers never fought a battle,' will be pallbearers at his gubernatorial funeral; for wherever he turns in Georgia, those sprigs will start up by thousands to bury him. "There are instances where people obtain pensions without having entered an army," said a veteran of '61 today, "and I know a case of that kind in one of the countles of south Georgia. The man was not a de-serter in the war, but he managed to re-main at home by some pretense. In 1884 he was caught stealing from a neighbor and a load of buckshot was sent through his leg. The wounded leg was promptly amputated. The case was never prosecuted, as the man compromised the matter by paying a satisfactory amount of money. Dr. R. C. Flower arrived at the Kimball house, this city, yesterday morning. To a Constitution reporter he said: "I was unable to see all the patients who came to see me during my visit lastweek. I shall see patients today (Thursday) and Saturday, but I shall not see patients on Friday."

The principle object of his visit to Atlanta is to settle the question of his building a sanitarium in Atlanta. The building of such an institution would do much for Atlanta. While the doctor has not settled the question, it is evident Atlanta is his choice of places. When asked what he thought such an institute would pay he replied from 35 per cent and upwards per year upon the investment. I have already 1,200 patients in Georgia, and several thousand in the south. I could readily fill such an institution with 250 to 300 patients. In the winter I would send my patients from the north and east.

ATLANTA, GA., March 1, 1894.

Let Us Get Together at Once!

The friends of the exposition are not surprised to find that there is some difference of opinion among good citizens in regard to matters of detail, and especially in regard to the location of the big show, but there is one thing certain and that is that everybody wants the exposition.

In all similar enterprises there are disagreements at the start, and then through conference and compromise all parties get together and work harmoniously with more enthusiasm than ever. Chicago was torn assunder by opposing factions who could not agree upon the site of the world's fair, but in a short time all differences were adjusted and the city spent $10,000,000 on the enterprise, and reaped a golden harvest.

Atlanta is going through the same experience. Some want the exposition at one place and some at another, but all agree that we must have the exposition. When our people are in this frame of mind, all that they have to do is to give both sides a new chance to get together and consider the compromise that will be most agreeable to all parties.

Fortunately, the matter has taken this turn and two committees will immediately hold a conference and see what can be done for the best interests of Atlanta. These committees must come to a decision without delay. Every day lost sets the exposition back, and we cannot afford to lose any time.

We know the spirit of our Atlanta peo ple too well to fear the outcome. After the coming conference, our citizens will be united and they will pull together in the good old fashion, and make the exposition a bigger thing than was contemplated at first. We cannot disagree about a matter of so much importance. The exposition is a necessity. The en tire south has taken an active interest in it; the north and west are watching us, and many countries south of us have announced that they will send exhibits here and be largely represented. If we quarrel among ourselves over details and abandon the exposition we shall be the laughing stock of the world. It would be Atlanta's first failure to carry out a great undertaking, and capitalists and men of enterprise in every commercial center would shake their heads and say that we were going backward instead of forward.

The exposition is a necessity. It will help every man, woman and child in Atlanta. It means more population, more money, more big enterprises, more employment for labor, more houses, more tenants, more trade, more progress. Give up this splendid conception and capital will be terrorized and our working class es will emigrate, while our industries will shut down, and the placards of the receivers will line every street. To go forward with this great enterprise means prosperity for all; to abandon it means a long spell of hard times for

We have had our wrangles Vefore, but we have always come together and worked for Atlanta, and we are going to do it this time. It shall never be said that our people are so stubborn and narrow that they are willing to sacrifice the prosperity of the city rather than meet those who differ with them half way. Let us have our conference, compromise our little differences, and then work together as we always do, and as we did when we turned our ash heaps and ruins into the metropolis of the new south!

The Grand Old Man.

The announcement of the approaching cesignation of Mr. Gladstone will cause genuine regret among the people of all lands who believe in home rule, and who desire to see the institutions of England modified and liberalized until they become practically democratic.

But Mr. Gladstene is eighty-four years old, and he has worked harder and longer than any other man in public His eyesight is failing, and he feels that rest is an absolute necessity. Possibly younger men will take up his work and carry it through successfully. but it is to be feared that home rule and liberalism will make little progress for sometime to come. No new leader can have the prestige and influence of the grand old man.

Mr. Gladstone has been premier four times. He entered parliament at the age of twenty-three, and a year later was made a junior lord of the treasury by Sir Robert Peel. At this time he was a strong tory. His first book, "Church and State," was characterized by extreme tory and high-church views, so much so that the work was severely criticised by Lord Macaulay. He was one of the earliest free traders, and his knowledge of commercial and financial affairs caused him to be several times apointed chancellor of the exchequer.

As a premier Mr. Gladstone distinguished himself by consistently favoring a peaceful policy, and by his advocacy of home rule, universal suffrage and other measures calculated to advance the welfare of the masses. He was past middle age when he left the tories to join the liberals, and even in old age he has shown a willingness to abandon his cherished opinions and wheel into line with the progressive younger gen-We do not believe that England ever had an abler all-round leader-not one more scholarly, versatile and indefatigable in his various lines of endeavor. In no other country on the globe can there be found a great popular leader past the age of eighty, bearing the cares and burdens of a vast empire upon his shoulders, and at the same time holding his own in the literary world with the foremost writers of the age. But for his failing eyesight, Mr. Gladstone would probably have continued his brilliant career several years longer. In his recent speeches he showed an aggressive vigor and spoke with a degree of eloquence and power not surpassed in his vouthful days. It is a calamity for England when her greatest leader retires from her councils. No man living is worthy to succeed him, and none can fill his place.

The Hon. Josiah Patterson's Apology. Congressman John Allen, of Mississippi, is a man in whom the fountains of humor have their seat. Everything he says is enjoyable, and, by the exercise of his superabundant gift, he is enabled to put wisdom through her paces and give to the dullest brethren the liveliest lessons in common sense. We appreciate Congressman Allen's remarkable gift. It lifts him high above the common herd, and enables him to bestow on his hearers the inestimable privilege of laughing while they learn. Nevertheless, his humor not infrequently lends a lightness to his more serious criticisms, and affords a cover for those who ought to be dealt with seriously and severely.

It is true this lightness or flippancy is merely apparent, for his humor is capable of assuming the wings and employing the stings of safire; but we are of the opinion that the disgusting apology which the Hon. Josiah Patterson made for the people of the south deserves more serious treatment than that which Congressman Allen gives it. Mr. Allen has done his part and has done it well, but it devolves on those who have been slandered by the Hon. Josiah Patterson's apology to regard it from a point of view that eliminates humor.

What the Hon, Josiah Patterson intended as a reply to Mr. Hewitt was abject enough if it be regarded as an apology; but the language he employed embodied a distinct charge against the people whom he represents in congress and against the southern people.

In apologizing for the state of things which Mr. Hewitt invented and de scribed, the Hon. Josiah Patterson, of Tennessee, according to the published report of his speech, declared that the people of the south were for the free age of silver because norant believers in the theories held by their fathers. The Hon, Josiah Patterson admitted that he himself was ignorant before he went to congress-was, in fact, elected to represent an ignorant constituency because he was as ignorant as they were. But now his eyes are opened. When he got to congress he began to study these things. Mr. Cleveland led him out of his ignorance. Mr. Cleveland took the Hon. Josiah Patterson on his knee and after romping with him awhile, opened his eyes to the correct principles of sound currency.

The Hon. Josiah Patterson, of Tennessee, does not say how his aptness as a pupil was rewarded, but the probability is that after he had learned the lesson of a sound currency he found several patronage plums in his breeches pocket. There is nothing to be compared to a pocketful of patronage plums as an eyeopener to the ignorance of a southern congressman, especially a congressman from the section of Tennessee from which the Hon. Josiah Patterson happens to come. In the opinion of The Constitution the apology of the Hon. Josiah Patterson is a more disgraceful attack on the people of the south than the slanders which Mr. Hewitt mumbled with his breadcrumbs at the banquet of the Southern Society. The people are neither blind nor ignorant on the financial question. So far as the essential principle of bimetallism is concerned they have on their side the experience of centuries and they find themselves in full agree ment with the most eminent financiers of Europe and this country. So far as the question of free coinage is concerned. the people find their views sustained by the history and experience of France up to the moment when Germany undertook to empty into the depleted treasuries of her victim the silver which had been demonstized and discredited for that purpose. Up to that moment France had sustained the principle of bimetallism, had kept her mints open to the free coinage of both metals, and had sustained the ratio between the two metals for seventy years, practically unaided and alone. A part of the time the United States had undervalued gold, but from 1834 it undervalued silver, and the white metal went to France. On one side Germany had the single silver standard, and on the other Great Brit ain had the single gold standard. If the Hon. Josiah Patterson is hunt ing for ignorance he need not go for. He need only knock at his own chamber door in the stilly night, advance across the threshold and cry "Hail!" to the first shadow he sees in his looking glass With that shade he can hold close communion, never doubting that he has found that which he was seeking.

terson, of Tennessee, with ignorance: but what is it that impels him to be willing to sacrifice the interests of his own people to the greed of the goldbug? And why should he, in the midst of this readiness, acquired, as he declares, at the feet of Mr. Cleveland, be willing to slander the people who have lifted him into office by declaring that they are ignorant?

Reorganization of the Consolidated. There is but one sentiment in Atanta with respect to the successful culmination of the efforts at reorganization of the Atlanta Consolidated Street Railway Company, and that sentiment is gratification. The Consolidated has been a great factor in the development of the city, and in the future will do much

The news that comes from Mr. Joel Hurt, president of the company, who has been in New York for the past week working for the success of the plans for a reorganization, tells how he has won the consent of the bondholders in the east to scale the interest on the bonds so that the company can meet all its indebtedness and get on its feet again.

Mr. Hurt and his zealous associates deserve the praise of every loyal citizen of Atlanta for their indomitable efforts in this direction. Mr. Hurt went to the bondholders of the Consolidated several weeks ago with a proposition that would allow the company to pay all its debts and avoid a total wreck of the splendid property if it met the concurrence of the bondholders. While this plan was being considered by the capitalists of the east an effort was made in the United States circuit court to have the property thrown into the hands of a receiver. This would have meant the wreck and ruin of the Consolidated.

Mr. Hurt made the case so plain by the evidence he submitted to the court that Judge Pardee refused to grant the petition for a receiver until the efforts at reorganization had been fully tested. Then Mr. Hurt went to the east and has secured the agreement of all the bondholders to scale the interest on the bonds to 3 per cent instead of 6 per cent, and has raised enough money to pay off all the old debts of the company, thus putting it on its legs again. The Consolidated is a home enterprise. A great portion of its shares are in the hands of Atlanta men. It is an Atlanta institution, and every loyal citizen of Atlanta is gratified and pleased at the turn things have taken.

More Pledges.

Mr. Oates's campaign in Alabama promises to derive its chief significance from the fact that he goes before the people of his state with more pledges.

The democratic platform is either too big or too little for him. He can't stand on it just as it is. Just at present, it seems to be too big for him and he is engaged in trimming it down to suit the new political, education which, like the Hon. Josiali Patterson, he has acquired by coming in contact occasionally with Mr. Cleveland.

In perfect fairness to Mr. Oates it should be said that he has a new platform of his own. Practically, he has tucked the democratic platform under the bed, but he is willing to pull it out once in awhile in order to convince the people that he is still within hailing distance of the doctrine on the strength of which the people of his district elected him to congress-on the strength of which the people lifted the democratic party to power.

But Mr. Oates has revised that doc trine to suit his new views, and he now comes before the people of Alabama as a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor with more pledges. This is very significant. various democratic pledges practically repudiated and others hanging in the air, how can the people be expected to content themselves with unauthorized pledges brought forward by a congressman who wants to be governor. This phase of Mr. Oates's candidacy is so peculiar and so interesting that we want to see it widely discussed. The truth is it is a matter just as interesting in Georgia as it is in Alabama, and there is no part of the country where democrats can afford to ignore it as one of the symptoms of the double shuffle that has discredited the party. It need not be asked how Mr. Oates is going to carry out his new pledges as governor when he failed as a congressman to carry out those contained in the platform. That is not important at all. The important fact is that politicians of Mr. Oates's kidney are preparing to substitute for the pledges made by the party to the people the private and personal financial views of the goldbug element, which, for various reasons not necessary here to specify, they have been induced to endorse. That is the special significance of Mr Ontes's new pledges. One of these is that Mr. Cleveland is in favor of the free coinage of silver on an international basis. But when is this pledge to be redeemed? How, and where is it to go into effect? Mr. Oates doesn't know. Nobody knows. Another pledge that Mr Oates makes is that he himself is in favor of a silver dollar containing a dollar's worth of silver. But how does this new pledge, fresh from the mental mint of goldbuggery, help the people? Editor Watterson, looking over the field the other day, inquired how the democrats propose to stay and turn the drift indicated by the recent electionshow they expect to carry the November elections? "By more pledges?" he asked. Mr. Oates seems to furnish a partial answer. He has done the best he could under the circumstances. In place of the democratic pledges that have been repudiated he comes forward with a few new pledges of eastern goldbug manufacture, and evidently expects the people to be satisfied with them. The Hon. Josiah Patterson contends hat the southern people are no better than fools, and if the case is as bad as Patterson has misrepresented the people, and, for that reason, we expect to see the democrats of Alabama select for their governor a man who stands squarely on the democratic platform.

Some Facts Recalled. Editor Watterson, in his courteous reply to some comments made by The Constitution on a malicious paragraph in his newspaper, says that he was in favor of the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law because the platform demanded it. As Editor Watterson is something of a humorist in his way, we shall have to take his assertion with a grain of salt. If he or any other person can show any platform demand for, or promise of, the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law he will be able to accomplish the impossible.

But even if he were able to show it, the fact would still remain that the platform has been repudiated in this particular, for only a part of the Sherman law-the purchasing clause-has been repealed.

The truth is, the platform demands the repeal of the whole Sherman law, but not unconditionally, for the democratic declaration, which is clear as noonday and as unmistakable as the sunlight, goes on to say that the democratic party holds to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country.

We are not trying to engage in a controversy with Editor Watterson, for the facts are too plain to admit of controversy. We simply desire to call his attention to the additional fact that the platform and policy of the party were repudiated when the Sherman law was repealed without substitute legislation.

It has been hinted that the Hewitt programme of the Southern Society was cut and dried for the purpose of influencing democrats in congress to defeat the seign lorage bill. Stranger things have happened.

The president is hunting in the Dismal swamp for ducks. The people are hunting in the Dismal swamp for their lost pros

It appears that the Hon. Josiah Patterson has broken a fiddle string.

Our readers need waste no tears on the Southern Society in New York. Prominent members of that organization say they thoroughly agree with everything that Mr. Aberham Hewitt said.

The cavity in the democratic policy, caused by "no quorum," has done bad work. The Hon. Josiah l'atterson's igno ramuses, the people, are doing some pretty tall thinking.

The gilded chamber, or the guilty chamber, if they preferred that name, was no longer the stronghold for a high type of statesmanship, but was the meeting place of the representatives of property, reaction, wealth, landlordism and the company promoter, always seeking an opportunity to conspire against the best interests of the people. In what manner this nation is affected in its foreign trade by the shrinkage of the value of its products, may in some measure be estimated from the latest statistics of our exports of certain commodities. These statistics show that for the seven months ending with January 31st, as compared with the corresponding period twelve months earlier, our exports of wheat were 11,868,082 less in bushels and 17,050,260 less in dollars. The price fell nearly 50 per cent more than the quantity. The quantity of wheat flour exported was 24,344 barrels more than in the preceding period, but for this increased quantity we obtained 3,259, 387 less dollars. The more we ship abroad the smaller the return in money. The figures with respect to cotton are equally striking. In the five months ending Janua ry 31st, this year, as compared with the corresponding period in the previous year, we exported 379,362,416 more pounds, but the value was only 20,007,186 more in dollars. If prices shall continue to decline, as they will, our export trade will increase in vol ume, but we shall pay with it a continually increasing amount of debt. With every drop in values our debt to Europe grows larger. That part of it which is a decade old is probably nearly twice as large at the present moment as it was when the obliga-tion was incurred. The European creditor is enriching himself year after year, with-out lifting his finger, at the cost of American farmers and planters, and at the cost of this whole nation.

The new counterfeit silver dollars one gets so frequently here of late are the only counterfeits ever known worth intrinsically as much as the genuine dollar. Silver is so cheap that the maker of these dollars puts exactly as much in them as the govern-ment puts in its dollar—that is, about 50 cents' worth, or a little less. Beyond a roughness and varying thickness it is diffi-cult to tell a counterfeit from a genuine dollar. Both ring alike, and, judging from the number in circulation, both pass equally well.

In a leading editorial on the gubernatorial race The Butler Herald says:
"We think those who have advised Colonel Atkinson to withdraw from the gubernatorial contest have acted the part of wise and true friends. Nearly every with whom we have conversed on this subject say they would like to vote for the colonel after General Evans has been hon-ored with the place of governor of our state; that Colonel Atkinson is young enough to wait: that he has had political preferment, while Seperal Evans has had none; that just at this juncture of affairs the nomination of the general will conserve most to the harmony of our party and finally that they regret to see Colonel At-

The LaGrange Graphic says editorially: "General Evans does not ask the office of governor as a 'reward,' nor the support of voters on a mere sentiment. In the enjoyment of good health, his mental faculties bright and unimpaired, his judgment rip-ened by experience and possessing every requisite to fill the gubernatorial office, he asks the support of the people whom he has served all his life on his merits.' The Jonesboro Enterprise makes this edi-

Our Policy of Annexation.

From The Boston Globe.
The history of the United States shows that this country is not averse to the ab-sorption of new territory against the will of the people who are most directly con-

At first the Mississippi river was the extreme western boundary of this country. The Louisiana purchase carried this boundary as far west as the Rocky mountains. Florida and the narrow strip along the gulf, from the Atlantic coast to the Mississippi, was celed to the United States by Spain in 1819. The territory embracing California, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico and Arizona was ceded by Mexico in 1848. The accession of Texas was the only addition to our territory which resulted in bloodshed although this annexation was desired by the Texans themselves.

From all this we see that the policy of the United States has never been unfavorable to annexation, although it is not curpolicy to annex any territory against its wish. y of the gentlemen who have worked shard for the success of the exposition, ting their time and their energies and ribing liberally of their money in supet of the enterprise, felt deeply grieved or the action of the mayor. In expresstheir views on the matter they used no about language, but came out in very rong language. The mayor had been and to be present and what was said said to him. He made a frank, full stement of his position, reiterated his sendship for the exposition movement after a full expression of views pro d con, in which almost everybody took a and, a step was taken which will result na happy solution of the difficulty.

Yes, it is safe to say that there will be m question as to the ultimate success of he exposition and it will be held on the nd scale that has already been mapped out for it by the wise heads who have been frecting the movement. Whatever may be the differences of opinon as to site, one thing is certain, and that is that all Atlanta has agreed that the exsition shall be held, and that it shall be held in every way worthy of the greater

Atlanta. This question of site has been the rock upon which many an exposition enterprise has split. It willbe recalled that the wranging over this question came very near using serious disruption in the case of the world's fair, that is among the people d Chicago themselves, but in this connec it will also be recalled that after a the had been finally agreed upon the peoof Chicago became united as one man nd worked harder for the success of the sition than they had done before.

The gentlemen who, as the committee o corporators, comprise the exposition board s it now stands had thought the plan which the council so unanimously enlorsed furnished a practical solution of e site question which would eliminate y discussion of the subject. They were aturally very sorry to see that any dis sion had been raised, but after a full atement of their position and after hearng fully from the mayor, in which he ankly and openly stated his position in the matter, all came together on the basis proposed by Captain E. P. Howell, which was the appointment of a committee of five from the exposition company and of a like committee to be appointed by Mayor Goodwin, this committee to investigate fully the claims of the different sites and to see if some plan could not be arranged upon which all could unite. And while the meeting which lasted from Il until nearly 3 o'clock, was decidedly lively and a good deal of talk was "with got together after it was over, and in discussing the question calmly, endorsed fully the plan which had been adopted, and all agreed that it will bring about a happy settlement of the question. While the exposition people believed that ther decision on the question of site was the proper one, they, however, had no obletion whatever, to a full canvass of the question of site, pelieving that the committees to be appointed would be made of presentative Atlanta citizens who have only the exposition at heart and that the result will be, instead of injuring, benefidal to the enterprise, no matter what the

In other words, while there are differmees as to detail, there are no differences is to the broad proposition that the people If the city are unquestionably for the expoition, and that the exposition will be held on a scale worthy of the city.

They Were on Hand Early. There was no lagging behind on the part members of the exposition board. They were on hand, many of them considerably before the appointed hour, and by 11 o'clook the exposition rooms were pretty

Among those present were President Hemphili called for order, were Mr. S. M. Inman, Governor Bullock, Captain Grant, Mr. C. A. Collier, Mr. Hugh Inman, Mr. J. G. Oglesby, Major Fitten, Mr. J. J. Spalding, Captain James R. Wylle, Mr. P. H. Harralson, Mr. Clark How-ell, Mr. E. P. Chamberlin, Dr. B. F. Walker, Dr. H. L. Wilson, Mr. Martin Dooley, Mr. Forrest Adair, Mr. Martin Amorous, Director General Palmer and immediately afterwards Captain E. P. Howell, Mr. Joe Thompson, Mr. Julius Dreyfus, Mr. George Drummond and others dropped in.

President Hemphill called the meeting to order, stating its object. He asked for expressions from everybody.

Mr. Inman said that he could not help expressing his discouragement at the situation, and he said that without the material sympathy and co-operation of the city the movement could not hope to succeed. He submitted a series of resolutions which he said were for the purpose of bringing about discussion on the subject, and he would like to hear expressions of opinion from everybody present.

Mr. Jack Spalding said that the resolutions were on the line of those he had prepared, and suggested several changes. Hon. Hoke Smith, secretary of the interior, came in at this time, and was greeted with hearty applause. While the changes suggested by Mr. Spalding were being made a recess was taken for the purpose of shaking hands with the secretary of the Interior.

Mr. Inman's Resolutions. The resolutions of Mr. Inman are as fol-

"Whereas, At a meeting of citizens representing every interest of the city of Atlanta it was decided with great unanimity and enthusiasm to hold an exposition worthy of Atlanta and the south; and

"Whereas, A charter was obtained and the movement placed in charge of some fifty of the leading citizens of Atlanta; and "Whereas. This board of directors after a mature study of the site offered including the old waterworks, decided that Piedmont park for many reasons was the only practicable spot on which the exposition could be successfully held; and "Whereas, Said board of directors found that without the aid of the city sufficient funds could not be raised to place the ex-position movement on a proper footing, and feeling thus, appealed to the city to buy the Piedmont property, on such terms as would place $75,000 legally within reach of the exposition as aid to that extent on the part of the city; and

"Whereas, The general council, with great unanimity, agreed to the proposition, but his honor the mayor in his wisdom has seen fit to differ with the combined judgment of the directors of the exposition and the general council; therefore be it "Resolved, That this board of directors still maintaining their belief that the plan submitted by them to the city government of Atlanta, and reiterating their belief that Piedmont park is the only site upon which the exposition can be held with success place this whole matter in the hands of the city government and leave it with that body, representing the whole people, to decide the fate of the enterprise and say by their concurrence in or dissenting from the plan proposed by this board to say whether this enterprise shall go forward or be permanently abandoned."

Captain English moved the adoption of Captain English moved the adoption of these resolutions and in a short speech made a statement as chairman of the committee which was appointed to meet with the council committee. He expressed his deep regret at the action the mayor had deep regret at the action the hayon taken, pointing out a number of reasons why, in his opinion, the mayor's position was not tenable. He regarded the situation as critical, urging the necessity of prompt action, and saying that he sincerely hoped action, and saying that he sheetest with the some way would be found out of the difficulty. He criticised the mayor's action and said that he thought the council did right in endorsing the proposition. He was, however, against any effort to pass it over the mayor's yeto, as he believed if failure was to come the responsibility should rest with the mayor. He urged the adoption of Mr. Inman's resolutions.

Governor Bullock's Substitute. "I fully concur with Captain English," said Governor Bullock. "I have been present at all the exposition meetings and I know that no personal pecuniary interest has been injected into it. The most important thing to make this a success is, indeed, action. It seems to me, the best thing. action. It seems to me the best thing is for this committee to get out of the way and surrender the charter. I have, therefore, prepared a series of resolutions which I submit as a substitute for those offered by Mr. Inman Governor Bullock's substitute was as fol-"Whereas, The progress of Atlanta is paramount, and whereas, our success as a city has been secured in the past by the united action of our citizens; and, whereas, his honor, the mayor, finds himself unable to agree with the unanimous opinion of the board of aldermen, and this committee supported unanimously by the city council

Secretary Smith Talked Enthusiasti-

President Hemphill called on Secretary Smith for an expression as to the situation. "Since I have been away," said Mr. Smith, "I never have allowed a spare moment to escape me without studying Atlanta's interests. I came here when seventeen years old and I have spent twenty years with the gentlemen whom I see around me here. I hope to come back in a few years and spend the balance of my life here. When I first saw the names of the gentlemen prominent in the exposition movement, I said: "There can be no question about it. With those men at the head about it. With those men at the head of it the exposition is bound to be a great success. It is hard for you to realize," continued Mr. Smith, "the amount of interest this movement has inspired all over. continued Mr. Smith, "the amount of interest this movement has inspired all over the country. It is understood to be the coming exposition for the next year and men of strength and commercial responsibility are coming not only to study the exposition alone, but to study the south."

The secretary said that there would be no trouble whatever in securing the hearty co-operation of the other countries desired. He pointed out that it would be a great blow to Atlanta to let anything come up to prevent the holding of the exposition. He referred to the fact that a condition exists at present which is new. The past few years the emigration and wealth has gone west. It is now the confident belief that the south is a better place for investing money and for people to seek homes than the west. He sincerely hoped that some practical solution would be obtained under which the exposition could be held.

Some one suggested that Mayor Goodwin wasn't present and Alderman Stephens telephoned for him, urging him to come, as the interests of the city were at stake. Mr. Spalding suggested that a committee of three be appointed to consider the resolutions and report and suggested that Mr. Collier be chairman.

Mr. Collier stated that he would rather not serve. He pointed out in an eloquent speech the necessity for harmony and how the lack of it might prove fatal

Mr. Coller stated that he would rather not serve. He pointed out in an eloquent speech the necessity for harmony and how the lack of it might prove fatal to the exposition.

Mr. Spalding told of his visit to the mayor on the day before the proposition was returned without his approval. He said that in his opinion there were just two things to do—to pass Governor Bullock's resolution or go ahead and raise the $200,000 and hold the exposition without asking the city for aid.

Mr. Oglesby defended the mayor, saying that while he disagreed with him as to his action, he knew that Mayor Goodwin was a friend to the exposition. He believed that steps could be taken to harmonize all difficulties. He suggested that if the exposition property could be purchased

The sitting room on the left, with its rich tones in hanglings and decorations, was adorned in bamboo, palm leaves and smilax, and the flowers used were pink La France roses, placed in profuse and graceful masses in handsome vases and bowls, while a great ball of roses depended from the smilax-twined chan-deller.

In the two drawing rooms opposite, which were turned into one by folding doors, the ceremony was performed. Here the decorations, which were designed by the dainty taste of the bride herself, were most uniqu and beautiful. Cotton Advances a Few Points and Spots in Some Cases Are Higher-War Talk Frightened the Shorts in Wheat.

NEW YORK, February 28.—Business at the stock exchange today was better dis-tributed than of late. The railway issue met with good support, while the Industri-als contributed their usual quota to the total transactions. A much firmer tone charac-terized the dealings, and, taken altogether, operators were disposed to take a some-what more cheerful view of the situation. It should not be inferred, however, that there was any marked disposition to enter there was any marked disposition to enter-into extensive contracts on the long side. The bulls today were simply feeling their way. They had in their favor some buying for London account, enough to cause a shading in sterling exchange rates and con-siderable covering for the short account. 952 44(2302 203 ... Total *Corrected. Arkood Violett & Co.'s Cottos Letter. By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager NEW YORK, February 28.—Liverpool did her snare today by advancing 2 points with spot saies of 12,000 bales and closing firm. Our cables and exchanges are in favor of the market improving, and a favorable opinion is gaining ground also that there was a better demand from spinners. The improvement here at the opening was 7 points to which were added 4 more, but Philadelphia receipts of 3,200 bales broke the market 1 points below the highest. The port movemen. Was 11,800 bales, whereas expectations were $5,000 bales, against 7,900 last year and 17,199 in 1890. The port movements so far this week, however, is about 500 less than the same period last year; therefore the decline so far as it is attributed to the Philiadelphia movement is sentimental. During the recent decline the statistical situation was lost sight of to a great extent, owing to panicky conditions, especially at Liverpool, but now that the atmosphere has cleared it becomes clearly evident how strong the position of cotton is. Mr. Pasch, the French statistician, in his circular of February 15th, reiterates his crop estimate of 6,900,000, and while we regard his figures as about 300,000 too small, at the same time he gives very interesting figures showing the buillish features of cotton. Among other Arread Violett & Co.'s Cotton Letter February 15th, reiterates his crop estimate of 6,900,000, and while we regard his figures as about 300,000 too small, at the same time he gives very interesting figures showing the builtsh features of cotton. Among other things he shows, according to The New York Chronicle, the stock at thirty-one leading weekly reported points in the south on February 10th were 37,000 bales, and yet deliveries to southern spinners after that date last year were 35,000 bales, practically, therefore, there was only sufficient stock at the visible points on February 10th to supply the needs of southern mills. The unknown quantity is the amount on the plantations and at towns not weekly reported, and these were estimated at about 50 per cent less than on the same date last year. According to the New Orleans cotton exchange, which every Wednesday reports the movement at twelve of the most important cotton points, the stocks were 282,000 bales, against 3.5,000 last year, whereas on April 1st last year the same points held 276,000 bales; therefore, at a time exactly six weeks later than now those cities held within 6,000 bales of what their stocks are today. That the price of cotton was carried far below its intrinsic merits by the recent demoralization we think the bears generally admit. The market evidences that the shorts are timid about increasing their lines, and much of the advance today was caused by the little resistance they offered until the port movement promised to be as large was realized, when their selling became freer. The encouraging sign, however, is the excellent spot demand at all important points in the south today, several of which are 1-16 to ½c better. If Liverpool continues to take 10,000 to 12,000 bales daily it will put a different phase on the situation. Cotton is too strong statistically to take the chances of depressing it at its current market value unless trade conditions become more unsetted and disappointing than they have been up to this time.

Riordin & Co.'s Cotton Circular.

NEW YORK, February 28.—(Special.)—The market showed comparative strength today urtil the last hour. Liverpool was active and 4-64d higher. The movement was rather light and our opening was at an advance of about 7 points, the first sales of May being at 7-60. During the forenoon the trading was nervous and the fluctuations frequent, although within a range of a few points. But as the day advanced many who nad sold out their holdings during the recent decline decided to repurchase, under the impression that the long-expected advance had at last begun. Buying orders from the south came in freely, and for a time there was a mild display of bullish enthusiasm. May alimbed to 7.65 and the trading in May at 7.46 was satisfied and it became apparent that there were more sellers than buyers. The floor traders who had bought this morning, seeing their profits were likely to disapppear, hastened to unload, and a sudden pressure of offerings broke prices about 9 points from the highest. The close was barely steady. We hope that the improvement will go on, or at least be maintained, but we can see nothing at this moment to encourage buying. Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Circular.

If the long interest should continue to accumulate, in the absence of any substantial support to prices the market may again become top heavy and another serious break like that last Monday may follow, but we rather expect inconsiderable fluctuations for a time without any decided movement in either direction. We are inclined to favor sales upon moderate rallies.

NEW YORK, February 23.—An improving demand from Lanchashire spinners caused an advance in the Liverpool market of 4-64d during today and the close of business is quoted as firm, while private cables state that the depression appears to be over and that spinners will continue to take their full consumption unless the movement materially increases. The New York market opened firm at an advance of about 7 points on last night's prices. Receipts at the interior towns today are light, Memphis receiving 87 bales against 522 last year and St. Louis 148 against 822. It is asserted that this movement is curtailed by the recent storm throughout the south, and that it will pick up within the next week. Upon this belief a quantity of long cotton has been sold today by those who, having held through the recent depression, are eager to avail themselves of the opportunity to secure themselves of the opportunity to secure themselves against loss. During the afternoon receipts at Augusta and Philadelphia coming large, brought about a reaction, and the market closes barely steady at 8 points below the highest.

The Sun's Cotton Review. Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular,

The Sun's Cotton Review.

NEW YORK, February 28.—Cotton advanced 9 to 12 points, then reacted and closed barely steady at a net advance for the day of 3 to 5 points. Sales 17.300 bales. Liverpool advanced 4 points, closing firm. Spot sales 12,000 at an advance of 1-64d. In Manchester yarns were dull and for cloths the inquiry was small. Semi-weekly receipts reported by New Orleans 14,000 against 16,000 the same time last week and 25,000 last year; shipments, 19,000 against 22,000 for the same time last week and 25,000 last year; shipments, 19,000 against 22,000 for the same time last week and 25,000 last year new Orleans advanced 9 to 12 points and then lost part of the improvement. Spot cotton here steady and unchanged. Sales 422 for spinning. Southern spot markets were in some cases higher. New Orleans and Memphis advanced ½c, Mobile, Norfolk and St. Louis 1-16c and Augusta 1-16c to ½c, while on the other hand Wilmington declined ½c and Charleston about 1-16c. New Orleans sold 3,250. Memphis 2,200 and Charleston 1,733. Port receipts were 11,871 against 13,644 this day ast week and 7,902 last year; thus far this week 46,672 against 54,629 thus far last week. Exports 12,574 to Great Britain and 1,852 to the continent. New Orleans receipts tomorrow are estimated at 2,500 against 1,273 the same day last week and 3,086 last year. Many letters from various sections of the south report exhaustion of supplies. At Newburyport, Mass., the Peabody mills, 300 hands, will reduce wages tomorrow 10 per cent; Hermitage and Boyd mills, Reidsville, N. C., will shut down until trade revives. Reported that six large New England mills will probably move their plants to the south this year, including three already certain to go, namely, Bliss, Fabyan & Co., Dwight Manufacturing Company and Massachusetts Company. A new mill, the Tuscapan, has been started at Weliford, S. C., Some of the mills at Fall river are said to have made profits last year of 15 to 25 per cent. The Sun's Cotton Review.

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter. ket opened from 1/4c to 1/2c higher this morning, and continued firm until Bradstreet's report was received, which, being very bearish, caused a very weak feeling and a lower market. This report makes the total decrease east and west of the Rockies 1/155,000 bushels, the increase affoat and abroad and in Australia of over 3,000,000, with an increase in the world's visible of 1,897,000. The cause of the early strength was the good demand for milling lots, higher northwestern markets and strong closing cables. This latter item caused an advance from 50%c to 60%c, when values receded on the report referred to above 60c. The selling has been on a large scale during the day, and under 60c the buying was almost equally as good as during the early part of the session. Primary receipts were large for the day, receipts especially at Milwaukee being surprisingly large, it being said this latter city has been buying heavily in Kansas City for some time past. Exports were disappointing, but contrary to expectation, influenced the market but slightly. The aggregate was about 23,000 wheat and flour reduced. St. Louis was quite bearish, and claims that as soon as the roads are good millers will be supplied with more wheat than they can conveniently take care of. New York reports exporters doing but little, with no bids from Liverpool. Our market, however, has been a stubborn one, but the tendency seems to be towards lower prices.

The Road Must Be Put on the Block Saturday—The Reorganization Commit-tee Will Make Bids on It.

al and desperate effort was made resterday by the committee on organiza-ion through their attorney, Mr. John T. Glent, to postpone once more the sale of the Marietta and North Georgia railroad. This second application coming so quick upon the heels of the other, shows that the committee is not exactly prepared to make a bid upon the property just now. Mr. Glenn presents a strong argument why the road should not be placed upon why the road should not be placed upon sile. He showed that this committee represented about 90 per cent of the bondholders and that for various causes it was not in a condition at present to put up the $15,000 this week or follow it with the amount for the purchase in a month or

Judge Newman stated that he recognized very fully that the trustees for the bondholders, and the representatives for the re-organization committee, representing a majority of the bondholders should have a majority of the bondholders should have very considerable influence as to the action of the court in a matter of this sort, but the court acted on this, as to the trustees and the representatives of the reorganiza-tion committee, and has, on some four or five times postponed the sale of this prop-sty at their instance.

Almost a year ago efforts were made to sell this property, and orders taken looking to that end, but it has, for various reasons, been postponed from time to time, and now another postpontment is asked for, and, as first presented to the court, an indefinite postponement. They now ask, however, for a postponement of twenty or thirty days, but the court is unable to see that the matbut the court is unable to see that the matter will be in any better shape for them then, than it is now, and the circumstances surrounding this property, are such that it seems absolutely necessary that it should be sold.

The road owes nearly$40,000 taxes in the states of Georgia, North Carolina and Tenrease, and the tax contents and their actorneys are pressing most earnestly for the payment of the taxes. The court has no right, there being no money with which to pay, to stand in the way of the government collecting its taxes, and would be compelled in a short time, to allow them to the property of the levy and sell some of the property of the company, which would, of course, be very minimum price fixed by the court.

The last time this sale was postponed, the court stated as strong as it could, without really depriving itself of all power of future action in an extraordinary case, that there would be no further postponement of the sale, and everybody interested seemed to acquiesce in that statement. All the parties at interest understood that the court postponed it on the last two occasions with great reluctance, and the court believes that it would be a wrong and a great wrong to postpone this sale any longer.

The inspectors appointed by the last mand jury are still at work upon the books of the sheriff. These inspectors are appointed every two years. It is probable that they will examine the tax collector's books next.

Clerk Frank Myers is hard at work making a draft of the cases disposed of during the past several years. This will be published at once and will be a matter of laterest to every lawyer in Atlanta.

While passing under the new building on Marietta street, near Bartow, Mr. Evans was hit on the head by a falling brick and an ugly gash was the result. Mr. Evans was carried to his home on Plum street where the necessary surgical attention was randered by Dr. Howell and Dr. Danforth.

DESPERATE EFFORT COMES OUT ALL RIGHT

Postpone the Sale of the Marietta | The Atlanta Consolidated Street Railway Company on Its Feet.

IS ALL JUST AS EXPECTED

A Startling Report from Memphis About a Movement to Colonize the Negro. Other Railroad Nows.

The very-much-to-be-expected reorganiza-tion of the Atlanta Consolidated Street Railway Company is a source of gratification and not surprise to the average citizen of Atlanta Several days ago it was first told in The Constitution that Mr. Joel Hurt, president of the company, who was then and who had been for some time in New York, getting bondholders to sign the agreement for reorganization, had secured the signatures of far more than the required number to bring about the satisfactory adjustment of the company's troubles.

This told the final story of the Consolidated's salvation. The public is perfectly familiar with those troubles under which the company has been staggering for the past few weeks. It is all very well known how the Consolidated began to stumble along with some difficulty early in the fall and winter, and how Presi-dent Hurt told the bondholders that some-thing walld have to be dead in the something would have to be done in order to preserve the interests of all parties concerned. He showed them that if they would agree to shave down the interest on the bonds the company could meet it within the next few years. The proposition was to scale the interest to 3 per cent for the next two years and after that time 5 per cent. The condition was pro posed that the shareholders would pay off the indebtedness of the company if the bondholders would agree to this scaling proposition.

The proposition was being received with favor by the bondholders when an attempt was made by Atlanta lawyers, representing eastern holders, to get the railway placed in the hands of a receiver. The case came up for hearing before Judge Pardee in New Orleans and the receivership was refused pending this effort at reorganization. Judge Pardee said that he would give the Con-solidated people thirty days to finish up the work of bringing about the reorganization, and thereupon President Joel Hurt went to the east to talk over the situation with the bondholders and secure 90 per cent of them to sign the proposition for reorganization upon the interest scaling

.Even as early as last Saturday news was received from Mr. Hurt, who was then in New York, that more than the required number of bondholders had entered the agreement. Not only this, the money was all placed in hand for the payment of the company's debts and Vice President Woodruff was in possession of the checks last Friday, all of which was told in The Constitution at the time.

It has never been regarded with the re-motest shadow of belief that the Consoli-dated folks would allow the thirty-day limit fixed by the court for this reorganiza-

The facts is, President Hurt found things easy when he went to the east. The bond-holders were very willing to cut the interest on their bonds so that the company could meet the interest and at the same time pay out of debt and get on its feet again. They went about the signing of the papers without a murmur But President Hurt is to be praised for als untiring and successful work in this regard, nevertheless. He studied out the scheme for the salvation of the company and has worked it through in the face of hard times, and in the face of the effort to saddle a receiver upon the company.

Some Railroad Changes, There has been a tendency on the part of the railroads entering Florida lately to create new offices there, owing, perhaps, to the rush of business into and out of Florida points.

The Richmond and Danville, since it makes the excellent connections it does with the Florida Central and Peninsular, has doing a vast deal of Florida business and consequently has found it necessary to make the following appointments for Jack-sonville as headquarters: W. W. Davies, general agent; E. B. Wells, traveling pas-senger agent, and W. L. Jones, traveling freight agent freight agent.

Mr. Davies has heretofore been the agent for the joint lines there. Mr. Wells is the well known clerk in the office of Mr. S. H. Hardwick, assistant general passenger agent of the system. He is one of the agent of the system. He is one of the brightest young railroad men in the south and has, by hard work and enthusiasm, won golden opinions from his superior officers connected with the Richmond and Danville. Mr. Jones is a well known and very popular young railroad man.

Mr. Jones has been the passenger agent at Jacksonville for the Georgia Southern and Florida up to date. The last named and Florida up to date. The last named road gives notice that Mr. W. H. Lucas will take the place of Mr. Jones at Jacksonville for that company.

A Red Hot Rate War Promised. Now, then, for the war in dead earnest! It is told by local railroad men, who ought to know, that the pending quarrel of the Louisville and Nashville and the Southern Railway and Steamship Association will result in great rate slashing by all the roads entering Atlanta. It is said that this slashing has already begun to slash and that rates are sure to go to pieces in dead earnest as soon as something is more settled in regard to the squabble that is going on at the meeting of the traffic men in Louisville.

At all southern points the rate war will be felt, it is predicted. At present, it seems to be the Louisville and Nashville against the field.

Western of Alabama Affairs. Western of Alabama Affairs.

The Western Railway of Alabama will make a good showing at the meeting of the stockholders and directors to be held in Montgomery on the 21st of this month. This will be the postponed meeting of the stockholders, out of which was expected to grow such sensations in the way of changes. The statement that Mr. Comer, of the Central, would remove, by power of the Central, would remove, by power of the Central's vote, the president and general manager of the company and put major Shellman, present traffic manager of the Central, in their places, was heard everywhere not many weeks ago, but when the meeting was postponed three times, having been at first fixed for the 5th of January, it began to seem that there must have been a changing of minds somewhere.

have been a changing of minds somewhere.

It is not affirmed or denied now, and there is good room for guessing whether the change will be made or not. The general opinion is that Receiver Comer has thought better of his first plans and will retain, by acquiescing, the present management of the company.

The Atlanta and West Point, which is the Georgia end of the system, has made an excellent showing to the stockholders, considering the hard times through which all southern roads had to pull last year and it is said that the Alabama end of the line, meaning the Western Railway of Alabama, will make a showing that will be equally satisfactory to the stockholders.

It Must Be Tantalizing

However well intentioned and honest the clever statements that lead to sales, it must be annoying to carry home the goods and tell the neighbors the cost, and have them say that they bought better goods here at a less cost. Goods sometimes are bought too dear and marked too high, in which case a liberal slice cut off from old prices don't make them any too cheap, nor equal to new well-bought goods. Getting the largest price possible at first is the old-fashioned way; but our system of doing business requires the lowest possible prices all the time, and we make it a business to see that they are. Whenever you want Clothes, Hats or Furnishings, visit our store with the intention to buy, for the prices we'll quote will induce you to leave your money with us.

The Atlanta Cotton Compress Company Asks for a New One.

SUCCESSFUL FOR TWENTY YEARS

In the Two Decades of the Company's History This City's Cotton Trade Has Increased Ten Fold.

The Atlanta Compress and Warehousing Company, through its attorneys, Messrs. Ellis & Gray, have asked the superior court

The articles of corporation under which the company has worked for the past twenty years with increasing success, was granted by Judge John L. Hopkins, when he was by Judge John L. Hopkins, when he was on the bench of the superior court, 'way back in March, '1874. The incorporators were Messrs. L. P. Grant, Charles W. Anderson, A. Austell, Robert A. Anderson. Campbell Wallace, W. C. Morrill, John D. Grant, J. A. Ansley, C. A. Chote, S. B. Hoyt, S. M. Inman and H. T. Coffee. Colonel P. L. Mynatt, as attorney, presented ine application of the company to the court. The capital stock with which the Atlanta Steem Cotton Compress Company, 'as it was originally called, began business, was $100,000, divided into 1,000 shares of $100 each. Immediately upon the subscription of the ood, divided into 1,000 shares of $100 each. Immediately upon the subscription of the capital stock a regular organization was perfected, and the company proceeded to business. It had a monopoly on the business of compressing cotton, as there was at that time no competitor in the field. Atlanta new boasts two compresses, however, each which has the capacity of handling 300,- bales annually. t was about seven years ago, in May, 1887, that the name of the Atlanta Steam Cotton Compress Company was changed to that of the Atlanta Cotton Compress and Warehousing Company, and that the capital stock was increased to half a million dollars. Authority was then given to enlarge the scope of the company to meet the growing demands of the cotton trade, and immediately and effective steps were taken to increase the business and operations of the corporation.

Later, a change was made in the personnel Later, a change was made in the personnel of the company, Mr. Georgo N. Parrott and Br. J. D. Turner, respectively, being made president and general manager of the compresses stand out as true exponents of the increasing volume of trade in cotton for the past quarter of a century.

The Growth of the Cotton Trade. "The Growth of the Cotton Trade.
"Twenty years ago," said one of Atlanta's cotton men to a representative of The Constitution yesterday, "the predominant characteristic of this town was its metropolitan spirit. That peculiarity of her nature has clung to her through all the years of her growth ang all the stages of her progress Then, as n. ... ail men were welcomed within her borders. Capitalist or laborer or seeker after home employment were alike given a cordial reception. This seeker after home employment were alike given a cordial reception. This metropolitan spirit is the main reason today why Atlanta is so far ahead of all her sister cities in the magnitude and diversity of her manufacturies. And there are none of those industrial interests that have of those industrial interests that have done so much 'towards developing the material wealth of the city as the cotton compresses. They have given employment to hundreds, and have been the means of turning into Atlanta a volume of trade that otherwise, never could have been diverted this way. "Do you know that last year the entire amount handled by the two cotton compresses of Atlanta—one on Peters street and the other on the corner of Bell and Decatur—amounted to more than 200,000 bales? This inted to more than 200,000 bales amounted to more than some bates, in gure represents the actual number of bales that have been handled by the compress companies, and of all the cotton that has been received here. I don't suppose that 800,000 would be putting it too high. The anmual capacity of the compresses is at least 600,000 bales for each company, and the facilities for warehousing would run that sum up 75,000 bales auditional.

"The growth of Atlanta's cotton business

"The growth of Atlanta's cotton business has been steady, rapid and healthy; and I don't see the slightest reason why the trade should not continue to enlarge as it has in the past. Certainly, if the action of the corporators of the Atlanta Compress and Warehousing Company is any index to the true state of affairs, the business in cotton is on a steady and continual growth up-

"The cotton production," continued he, "In the country around about Atlanta is constantly growing; Atlanta's railroad faconstantly growing; Atlanta's railroad facilities are admirable, and improving every year that passes; and, with the opening of this new road from Milledgeville to Covington and Atlanta, I feel confident that there are still great things in store for the cotton are still great things in store for the cotton interests of this region."

"What about the growth of the cotton business as compared with the state of the trade twenty years ago, when the first compress was started here?"

"Why. if I remember rightly, in the middle of the seventies, Atlanta had only about 25,000 bales, whereas, now. in 1893-4, she is next to the largest interior receiving point in the southern states. Atlanta's cotton trade now is one of her strongest supports, and, with the enterprising and progressive men who are in the business now, there is every reason to believe that the end of the good work has not been reached yet."

THE TWO ENGINE HOUSES:

The Board of Firemasters Recall the Contract and Relet the Work. Culver, the contractor who was awarded the contract for building the two new en-gine houses, the one in the fourth ward and the other in the seventh ward, will not do Contractor Wagner, a gentleman who has just come to Atlanta, will do the work.

When the contracts for the two new engine houses were first awarded all the mem-bers of the board of fire commissioners were present and all of the bids presented were opened. The bids were of many kinds and they were all considered by the board before the contract was let to any one. In considering the bids, however, the board of fire masters found that the lowest bid was made by Mr. Culver, of the seventh ward, and the contracts for the two build-ings were let to him.

The contractor, after the announcement was made, submitted his bond to the board of fire masters and the board, after looking into the bond, declared that it did not suit and declared the bid off. Then a call for an extra session of the board was issued and yesterday afternoon the board convened again. The necessity for the immediate construction of the two engine houses had long ago been made apparent to the members of the board by the chief of the fire department and when the members of the board were advised that the bond of Mr. Culver was not satisfactory to the architects a motion was adopted declaring the bid off. Then the board decided to award the confract to the next lowest bidder, and that r'dder was Mr. Fred Wagner. Mr. Wagner's figures were very close to those made by Mr. Culver and when Mr. Wagner stated that he would not ask the city for one dollar of the money until after he had completed both buildings and turned over the keys to the city the members of the board thought it would be better to accept his bid and let him do the work. Mr. Wagner will begin work at once and the indications are that the two buildings will be ready for occupancy within the next four months.

IN THE ARMS OF HER SON.

Mrs. Marguerite Keely, Who Had Just Reached Atlanta, Breathes Her Last. A pathetic story, and one which will no doubt be read with sorrowful interest by every one in this city, attaches to the unfortunate death of Mrs. Marguerite Keely, which occurred at 6:30 o'clock yesterday

To her boy, who was at the train to greet her, and who observed the feeble condition of his mother, knowing that she could not last long, her coming was like that of an angel from the pirit land. It was a blending of welcome and farewell. At 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning, having

Each statement shall be of about 500 words and all shall be reproduced in the printed pamphlet report of the proceedings.

A resolution was also adouted urging the different organizations in the state to investigate needed amendments in the public school laws, the system of tax assessments, the public road question, the agricultural depression, etc., with a view to combining influences to effect reforms. Governor Jones gave the delegations assurances of his hearty co-operation.

Prisoner Sets Fire to a Jail to Escape, and Is Burned to Death-He Got Lonesome.

Augusta, Ga., February 28.-(Special.)-Augusta, Ga., February 23.—(Special.)—
George Franklin, a negro, this morning attempted to burn his own baby, thinking that he was called on to offer a burnt sacrifice. Franklin has lost his mind and was completely crazed over the subject of religion. He imagined that his Maker commanded him to offer a burnt sacrifice and he plcked his baby up to cremate it. His wife, however, snatched the infant from the arms of the crazy man and ran out into the street, screaming at the top of her voice for help. The patrol wagon was ent for and the demented man was hand-unfed and taker to jail.

When the police found him he was lying in bed asleep holding a burning lamp.

John Jenkins, a negro preacher who was confined in the jail for beating his wife, was burned to death, although every possible attempt was made to save him. The theory that the prisoner, becoming tired of his enforced confinement, being the only occupant of the building, set it on fire in the hope that in the excitement following, he would have an opportunity to escape. An empty store adjoining the jail was also destroyed. It was owned by J. C. Hill. The loss is small, as the buildings were old.

Another meeting of the unemployed will be held at the courthouse tomorrow night. The object of this meeting is to appoint a committee to canvass each ward of the city and ascertain who are the poor people deserving assistance. Committees will make thorough canvasses and report back, when the meeting, as a body, will recommend those who are found to be really in need to the various relief and charitable organizations of this city.

THE YELLOW FLAG UP. It Is Hoisted Over the Infected House on Ella Street.

A yellow flag is hoisted over the gray cot-tage at 54 Ella street, in which are five patients sick with smallpox. A guard paces the street in front. Twenty people are confined within. Pedestrians in that vicinity choose a course at least a block distant from the infected house.

It was decided yesterday by Health Officer Veal and Dr. Alexander and other members of the board, that there was very little danger of the disease becoming general, and it was thought that safety could be assured without removing the sick ones to the pest-house. Accordingly quarantine was estab-lished at the infected house, and a guard, named Thomas Cox, warned all passers by give the house under the yellow flag a

The announcement in yesterday's paper that smallpox had been declared to exist in the families residing at 54 Ella street, caused a great deal of surprise throughout the city, but the alarm was not great. seiged with callers anxious to have their virus. During the day a good many arms were inoculated, and it is presumed that the work of vaccination will continue today. This morning at 8 o'clock there will be a meeting of the board of health and the phases of the situation will be discussed. The question of vaccination will be one of the principal matters for action, and the board will adopt some rule to insure the protection of the people by vaccination. It is not probable that the policy of the health department in regard to the cases already developed will be changed. No new cases were developed ysterday. The case of little Myrtis White was pronounced to be confluent smallpox, which is the most severe form of the disease. Her condition was unchanged yesterday, but the crisis is not passed. Two or three days crisis is not passed. Two or three days are needed before the danger line will be

Dr. Avary yesterday telegraphed for a large quantity of vaccine virus which will arrive today. It will be used in vaccinating all those who desire it. Dr. Avary regards vaccination as a necessary safeguard and says that unless the people are vaccinated the disease may spread.

"If the people will be vaccinated there will be no danger," said he. "Smallpox is nine days incubating, while vaccination is effective in seven or eight days."

THE POLICE RECORD.

A Bloody Fight in a Decatur Street

Two men, bloody and struggling furlously, tumbled out of a Decatur street stairway almost into Patrolman Grant's arms last

The men had on their fighting clothes and their bloody faces and well-directed blows showed the extent of their determination. Each was laboring for the extermination of the other. Fists and knives were doing the work of destruction. Officer Grant separated the bloody com-batants and led them to police headquarters. They were two white men, one about twenty-four, the other about thirty. The younger man was Joseph Albert and the older R. T. Venable. They had become involved in a dispute at the top of the stairway in the building at the corner of Decatur and Pratt streets, and went for each other vigorously. A third young man seemed to have had a finger in the fight, but he was out of it when Patrolman Grant turned up. The men got down stairs into

Mr. Venable was severely cut across the top of the head and on the right hand. Mr. Albert was wounded about the head and face. A generous profusion of blood poured from their wounds and dyed their clothing a senginger has a face. They were not clothing a sange nary hue. They were not locked up, but sent to the Grady hospital, where their wounds were dressed. They were not hurt so badly that they will not be able to appear in court this afternoon.

Charley Gouge, who has been failed a month on a warrant charging him with as-sault with intent to murder and highway robbery, was released yesterday at the instance of Detectives Cason and Looney. Gouge is the young man that was thought to be the assailant of David Draughn, the man who raised such a lot of mystery at the Grady hospital. He was arrested by Detectives Looney and Cason because a train of circumstances pointed to him as Draughn's assailant and was identified by Draughn, while the latter was mentally unable to think intelligently. The identification was not thought to be worth much at the time, but the detectives decided to hold Gouge until Draughn did recover.

has gone away for good and all. Nothing satisfactory has been fastened on Gouge, and yesterday the detectives released him, first carrying him before the justice before whom the warrant was first sworn out. The release was merely a formal matter.

It now appears as if the real assailant of Draughn will forever remain undiscovered. The injured man, who alone could give a correct clue, has left the city to remain away permanently.

Patrolman R. T. Bowle, who was taken off duty yesterday morning because it was feared that he had been exposed to smallpox, as he resides next door to the house in which the disease is located, returned to his post yesterday morning. After proper investigation members of the health board stated to Chief Connolly that Bowle was in no danger of taking the disease.

Chief Connolly made r. talk to the men yesterday and advisea all of them to get vaccinated at once. Most of the officers acted on the advice.

Captain Bill Starnes reached the city last night with three convicts from Curaming, Ga., that he is transferring to the state penitentiary. All of the convicts are negroes and two go for ten years each and the other has a sentence of five. Captain Starnes left them at police headquarters and will carry them to the convict camp this morning.

Mine Fire There Is Not Under Control. Call for a Business Convention.

The suggestion now is made that the association meet at Athens, Ala., and after spending two days in convention there, take a trip to Niagara Falls over the Louisville and Nashville, and return by the Queen and Crescent; or, in lieu of this, take a trip to Washington, going over the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia, through Tennessee and Virginia and returning by the way of the Richmond and Danville, through North and South Carolina and Georgia. The suggestion is made that the editors of the state prepare an exhibit and carry it along with them in a car provided exclusively for that purpose. Each county will be represented by an exhibit secured by its editors. In short the idea is for the editors to take a state fair on wheels along with them and show the northern folks what sort of a country we have down here.

Another suggestion is that the association meet at Point Clear, near Mobile, take a steamer from there to Tampa, Fla., and return home through Florida and Pensacola.

Mr. Skaggs Will Be in Charge. Mr. Skaggs Will Be in Charge.

It is stated now that the new third party daily will appear about March 15th. It will be an afternoon paper. W. H. Skaggs, of Talladega, will have general superintendency of the sheet. It is rumored that the following gentlemen will do the work: Editor, Colonel Robert McKey; news editor, Aubrey Harwell; city editor, Gano Grissom; business manager, Colonel Ralffe Saunders. These are all competent and experienced men and with money behind them it is believed they will print a bright and newsy paper.

A Move That Is Not Understood. A Move That is Not Understood.

Simultaneously almost with the call of R. A. Mosely, chairman of the executive committee of the white wing of the republican party of Alabama, comes a call from Edmund Mofton Smith, chairman of the campaign committee of that party, for his men to meet in this city on March 28th, the day before the meeting of the Mosely committee. It is not known what this signifies. Many think that Mosely and Smith will fall into each others' arms and together try to harmonize and reunite the g. o. p. in Alabama. Others believe that Mosely has called his committee to meet here for the purpose of reading Smith and his crowd out of the party and clinching the republican vote of the state for Captain Kolb.

Not Under Control.

There appears to be no truth in the report that the fire in the mine at Blockton is under control. A gentleman just from there states that the fire is, on the contrary, spreading. Another "lift" is now burning and a cave-in has occurred between the opening to the slope and the fire. it will be necessary to remove this fallen earth before any further work can be done toward quenching the fires. It is furthermore stated that mine No. 7, which is nert in order to No. 2, has become so filled with smoke that work in there was stopped today. This throws several hundred additional men out of work. The company is fighting the fire hard, but the odds appear to be against them. Civil Engineer Lent was seriously injured while fighting the flames Saturday. The fire will result in great loss of money to the Tennessee company.

A COMMERCIAL CONVENTION.

Chambers of Commerce. Birmingham, Ala., February 28.—(Special.) Birmingham, Ala., February 28.—(Special.)
Representatives of the commercial organizations of Mobile, Montgomery, Tuscaloosa, Huntsville and Birmingham met in Montgomery yesterday and passed the following resolution, which was signed by all present:
"Resolved, That, as representatives of commercial bodies in the cities of Mobile, Montgomery, Huntsville, Tuscaloosa and Birmingham, and knowing the advantages of business organization, we respectfully urge the formation of commercial clubs, boards of trade, chambers of commerce or similar associations in those cities now without these necessary adjuncts to a vigorous commercial and industrial career. Through them along can the energies and influence of business communities be brought to bear on questions affecting their commercial and industrial welfare, on enterprises of practical utility and on the great and important work of advertising abroad the resources of our state and its separate localities. Vigorous and sustained community effort is doing much for the several cities thus engaged through their organizations, and we believe that a vast deal more of good for the state could be and would be accomplished by commercial bodies in all our cities working harmoniously to a common purpose in promoting commerce and productive industry. To immigration we are all bound to look as the one great hope of vitulizing farm values and building up the interests of the agricultural districts now suffering from a sparse white population and the inherited practice of the one crop system. The indications all agree that now is the time to work vigorously in this direction and that by commencing at this time wonderful actual results will be ours before spring. Such a convention as is proposed is needed to set those popular forces of public and private enterprises in motion which are not to be resisted when flowing together. SHIVERS, AGENT.

A Volume of Correspondence Shows Him to Be the Prize Agent.

HE HAD MANY FIRMS ON HIS LIST

He Was Arrested by Detectives Holcombe and Wooten, Suspected of Stealing Shoes by the Wholesale.

Reuben C. Shivers, colored, is a wholesale shoe merchant of such original methods of business that he constitutes a type all by himself.

Just now his business methods are under-going dissection by the city detectives and a large pile of his assets and a great volume of his private correspondence is in evidence at police headquarters. Mean-while Shivers is in a cell.

The correspondence reveals the versatility and largeness of Shivers's business genius. From the hundreds of letters on file it would seem that he has engaged in every variety of commerce from peddling small pills to selling magnificent lace curtains. In a period of about two years he seems to have acted as agent for institutions and firms from Buzzard's bay to lower Cali-Recently his specialty has been shoes. He has been operating on an extensive scale at 248 Decatur street. His business was conducted on a plan entirely new and novel. He has pawned and sold shoes to Decatur street merchants and pawnbrokers all in the most modest and unostentatious way. Shivers is a high-browed, well educated and intelligent negro. His avordupo.s is about 225 pounds and he is an imposing

For several days Detectives Holcomb and Wooten have been tracing the steps of a mysterious man that went about among Decatur street merchants trying to sell shoes in wholesale lots and to Decatur street pawnbrokers pawning shoes. pawned two valises filled with shoes and a suit of clothes at one shop. The detectives felt confident that the negro was crooked and they bent their energies to find him. They worked hard and yesterday morning located him in a small room at 248 Decatur

They searched the room where Shivers lived and found a large quantity of fine shoes of all sizes, both for males and females. The shoes were assorted in the most careless manner, no two pairs being alike. Many pairs were worth $6 and $7 each. Numbers of them bore the mark of Gramling, Spalding & Co., others bore the mark of other local wholesale merchants.

Lace curtains, numerous articles of hardware and miscellaneous articles constituted h.s stock. The two detectives seized it ware and miscellaneous articles constituted his stock. The two detectives selzed it and carried it to police headquarters. They are confident that most of the goods irrivolen. They believe that Shivers has been robbing the wholesale houses for several months, taking out small quantities at a time. Members of the firms by which the goods are marked say that they have no recovered from Shivers.

Shivers's correspondence was taken in charge and it shows the character of his employment during the past few months. It seems that he has been agent for everything in the category. Letters from many firms in New York, Philadelphia and other large cities were included in the lot. The kitters refer to assignments of goods or call his attention to a bill that he owes. Shivers says he has done nothing wrong; that he came by all his belongings honestly and that nothing of a criminal nature can be brought against him. He takes his arrest quietly, saying that he has no fears as his business was perfectly legitimate. The detectives will continue their investigations today.

"A GRAND REMEDY."

Thousands of people agree with Mr. Thornton and Mr. Wilson, in reference to the remedial effects of TYNER'S DYSPEPSIA REMEDY.

A. E. Thornton, says:

I think it is the best not to hide a light under a bushel, and when a good remedy is discovered it is our duty to let it be known in the interest of suffering humanity.

Two summers ago I had a fall at St. Simon's Island, which disabled me to a considerable extent, and in time indigestion and dyspepsia ensued of a violent character. I tried all the various remedies as well as several eminent physicians without avail.

I was induced by a friend to try Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy, and the first dose relieved me. Yours is a grand remedy for Indigestion and Dyspepsia. It builds up, and I recommend it as worthy of trial by all who wish to test its superlative curative virtues.

E. B. Wilson says:

Dyspepsia was the bane of my life for ten years. Could not eat anything at all after dark. Water would even sour on my stomach. I have been taking Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy, and can now eat anything anybody else can-can eat buckwh eatcakes for supper, and sleep like a babe.

Tyner's Dyspepsia Remedy may be found at all drug stores. Price, 50 cents per bottle.
